The National Indian Health Board (NIHB) invites you to join us for the 2024 Grant Writing Institute during the 2024 National Tribal Health Conference on May 20, 2024, in Rapid City, South Dakota.

The Grant Writing Institute is intended to assist Tribal environmental health and other Tribal professionals in applying for federal funding opportunities related to environmental justice. The in-person training will feature interactive exercises and presentations with content on budgets, logic models, project narratives, and more! Registration for the National Tribal Health Conference is not required to attend this institute.

Who should attend?

Native environmental health and justice professionals, public health professionals, or any other Tribal employees interested in learning more about how to write a competitive grant application or refresh their grant writing skills and knowledge.

The Environmental Justice Thriving Communities Technical Assistance Centers (EJ TC TAC) Program is a national network led by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) in collaboration with the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE). The program aims to remove barriers and improve accessibility to federal funds for communities with environmental justice concerns. National Indian Health Board's (NIHB) Tribal Environmental Justice Technical Assistance Center is a national TAC leading Tribal technical assistance and supporting regional centers. The contents of this event do not necessarily represent the policies of EPA or DOE and should not be considered an endorsement by the Federal Government.
